

The Chicago Section of the American Chemical Society presents:

Job Search Workshop for Chemical Professionals

Saturday, November 4, 2006 9:00 am - 3:00 pm

University of Illinois at Chicago
Room 238, SES (Science and Engineering South)
845 West Taylor Street, Chicago, Illinois

This workshop is a customized extension of the outstanding seminars and workshops provided by the national ACS Department of Career Management and Development. It will be presented by one of their highly trained Career Services experts.

The workshop is specifically designed for chemists, and addresses their specialized skills and needs. This allows us to provide the most useful and up-to-date information and advice. Career Services publications will be available at no cost.

The topics covered will include: Networking; Targeting the Job Market; Discovering Small Businesses; Consulting and Entrepreneurship; Challenges Facing Mid-Career Professionals

There is no charge to attend. Morning refreshments will be provided, but we are unable to provide lunch.

RSVP, or for more information, please contact:

Gail Wilkening (847) 647-8405 chicagoacs@ameritech.net

Paul Young (630) 653-5657 dadpry@uic.edu

Directions: Mass Transit: The Science and Engineering South building is about ¼ mile south of the UIC-Halsted station of the CTA Blue line. It is about a 30 minute walk from the Metra station- proceed west 3 blocks to Halsted, then go about 1 mile south to Taylor.

Driving: There is a parking garage on the NE corner of Taylor and Halsted, diagonally opposite from the Science and Engineering South building. To get there-

-From the south, take the Dan Ryan Expressway to the Roosevelt exit. Turn left, proceed west one block to Halsted, and turn right. Go north two blocks, and Hull-House will be on your left. The driveway to the parking garage entrance will be on your right, but may be difficult to see.

-From the north, drive south on the Kennedy to the Dan Ryan, and take the Taylor Street exit. Turn right; immediately to your right will be the parking garage entrance.

-From the west, take the Eisenhower to the Dan Ryan, and follow the same directions as from the north.

The Science and Engineering South building is on the SW corner of Taylor and Halsted. However, the entrance cannot be seen from Halsted. Go west on Taylor to the walkway that leads to the plaza at the middle of the building. Go up this walkway (south), and up the stairs to your right. Handicapped access requires going all the way around the west and south sides of the building (counterclockwise). Signs will direct you to the room.